

Aggregate award at South Street

Although only three years old, Merinda Calisthenics College of Doncaster won the Royal South Street aggregate award in the calisthenics intermediate championship on Saturday night.

It reversed last year's position when the strong Calisthenics Association of South Australia team was champion and Merinda was reserve champion.

Merinda's principal, Mrs Pat Marsh, said she had only 17 girls to draw from for the intermediate championship.

She said to the girls: "We may not have many of you, but your spirit is great."

Merinda won half of Saturday's 10 events.
